A note from Peninsula Sports Club President Lori Woods

Welcome to the 62nd Annual Headliner's Night. My first year as President of the Peninsula Sports Club has been exciting and rewarding and all the credit goes to the wonderful board and the amazing membership. There are new board members that have joined us with enthusiasm and great ideas that we have started to implement. Membership has increased and attendance at our functions is strong. Every function involves new people and more stories of past sporting events and highlights. These functions are the reason I so enjoy the Sports Club.

I grew up on the baseball fields, football fields and in the swimming pools on the Peninsula. My parents, Jim and Sandra Pickin, were avid sports fans who passed on that love of sports to me. Being a part of the Sports Club has allowed me the opportunity to meet many of the people that I remember my parents discussing at the dinner table. It has been exciting to meet people and hear so many stories and discuss past and current athletic endeavors and I thank everyone in the Peninsula Sports Club for keeping the memories alive.

Headliner's Night is a culmination of the present and the past giving the Sports Club the opportunity to honor young athletes, past athletes and volunteers that bring their love of sports to the community of the Peninsula. I hope each of you present tonight feels the same pride as I do in these honorees. What a better way to spend an evening than hearing about the accomplishments of amazing people that love sports as much as you do.

I look forward to my next year as President. The hope is that we can continue to grow our membership and I challenge each of you to recruit one new member. New board members always bring new ideas and renewed energy, I ask anyone interested in joining the board to contact us at virginiawish@aol.com. And if you haven't in the past, be sure to join us at our Coaches Nights, The Car Party, The Holiday Party and back this year a golf tournament. We all have one thing in common, our love of Peninsula sports, and socializing with each other will keep many memories alive and create new memories.

Congratulations to the honorees. Thank you to the Board and welcome to all members.

Since its founding in 1949, the Peninsula Sports Club has been an active force on the sports scene. The First Headliner's Night was held in 1950 and continues to recognize high school, college, and professional athletes, coaches, and volunteers from local communities. In 1955 the first All-Peninsula football team was honored. In 1958, baseball, basketball, and track were added.

The Club became involved in community projects, advocating a "civic center" which became the Hampton Coliseum, and was involved in bringing professional baseball back to the Peninsula in 1963.

The Club has provided financial aid to athletes throughout the greater peninsula area. The Club presents a plaque to the Peninsula High School Athlete with the highest academic average. It is active in hosting events surrounding the Virginia Duals and the Boo Williams AAU National Basketball Tournaments. It also organizes group trips to many sports contests, has seasonal dinners highlighting upcoming seasons and coaches, and hosts notable sports figures as guests at other meetings.

The goals of the Club have remained the same over the years, to identify and recognize Peninsula citizens who promote sports activities or make outstanding contributions to perpetuate community athletics; and to recognize outstanding Peninsula athletes, many of whom have gained national acclaim. The Club continues to recognize and honor the successes of male and female high school and college athletes throughout the area.

WHO ARE These Guys?

Several Peninsula Sports Club awards are labeled, but not identified...

The JULIE CONN Most Outstanding Male Athlete in High School Award remembers the colorful, extremely successful Newport News High School athletic director and coach of virtually all sports at one time or another. He was, however, pretty much unequalled in basketball and track for decades. Although he stopped coaching basketball in 1953, he actually spent 56 years in the Newport News school system before mandatory retirement at age 65 in 1970. Among major accomplishments by Conn, whose first love was baseball:

His basketball teams (from 1927 to 1953) never missed a VHSL state tournament and never lost in the first round. In that 27-year span, the Typhoon won 396 games, losing only 77. In track, his tutelage led to 21 outdoor state championships. He and Lou Plummer constructed the first NNHS track in the 1940's and Conn started the school's junior varsity football program around the same time. He was the Sports Club's first Man of the Year (1951), was National High School Track Coach of the Year in 1958 and Julius Conn Gymnasium enables is the only area structure named for a coach.

The CHARLES S. KARMOSKY Award recognizes the community spirit which symbolized Karmosky's 38 years as sports editor of the Daily Press. The award honors a Sports Club member for outstanding contributions to PSC activities. Karmosky, who emphasized consistent coverage of high school and state college sports, was the PSC president in 1951. Among his many non-journalistic contributions to the area's growing sports community in the three decades following World War II: He was a founding member of the Sports Club in 1948; he was founder and president of the Tri-County baseball League from 1948-55; he was PSC Man of the Year in 1957 and was on one of the original feasibility groups which led to construction of Peninsula War Memorial Stadium and what was originally Hampton Roads Coliseum. He was in the first class of those admitted to the media wing of the Virginia State Athletic Hall of Fame (1997) and is in the Virginia High School League Hall of Fame. In its editorial tribute at his death in 1988, the Daily Press wrote that Karmosky "simply had no equals."

THAD MADDEN was the long-time football, basketball and track coach at Huntington High School in Newport News starting in 1943. He ruled the Vikings 28 years before transferring to Warwick for a 10-year stay that ended with his 1981 retirement. His career football record was 251-114-16. In a four-year stretch at Huntington, his basketball record was 112-13 that included three Virginia Interscholastic League Eastern District titles and in track, the Vikings posted an unbelievable 198 state crowns including two national mile relay teams. Madden accomplished these feats through tireless dedication. He conveyed the traits to the endless stream of athletes with whom he came in contact.

The HERBERT MOREWITZ Sports Person of the Year Award is presented in honor of the club's first president (1949) and an organization co-founder. Morewitz was many things to many people, especially those involved in sports. Mostly, he was tireless, generous and always optimistic. He spent untold hours coaching youngsters playing for his Hurricanes in the 1940s and 1950s, while also working with Boy Scouts and the Boys and Girls Club of the Virginia Peninsula for five decades until his death in 1997. His most successful venture was spearheading a drive that raised $1.2 million in 1985 for construction of a Boys Club building in Denbigh. He also engineered raising $235,000 to assist in the opening of Peninsula War Memorial Stadium in 1948. Among many other activities he was general manager of the Virginia Squires in 1971 and the next year he was general manager of the Peninsula Whips, of the Class AAA International League. No one else backed Peninsula minor league baseball as fervently or tried as diligently to return it here after its collapse in 1992. He was honored numerous times for his endless efforts to support his community. Even today, he stands without equal.

The BOB MOSKOWITZ Media Award is presented an area media person for exemplary presentation of area sports. Moskowitz, a Sports Club president in 1961, has been in journalism for over 50 years and was with the Daily Press for 34 of them. He is in the Media Wing of the Virginia Sports Hall of Fame.

ED NUTTYCOMBE

How big an impact has University of Wisconsin track coach Ed Nuttycombe had in his 28 years guiding the Badgers?

“Coach Nuttycombe has built a legacy that makes any athlete growing up in Wisconsin want to be a Badger,” said current Wisconsin decathlete David Grzesiak of the winningest track coach in Big Ten history. “More than that, he is a great leader, teacher and someone who really cares for his athletes and people around the program.”

Those sentiments make it clear why Virginia Tech and Menchville High School graduate Nuttycombe is this year’s PSC Sports Person of the Year. Ed and his father Charles, the former Hall of Fame Newport News and Menchville coach and 1963 PSC Man of the Year, are the lone father and son winners of the award in the 61-year history of the organization.

Under Nuttycombe’s guidance Wisconsin has won 11 of the last 15 Big Ten indoor track titles and 10 of the last 16 outdoor championships. He has earned 30 coach-of-the-year awards, including the 2007 Indoor National Coach of the Year Award after leading the Badgers to the first-ever national title by a Big Ten team.

Individually he has coached 161 Big Ten champions. Nuttycombe has had at least one individual Big Ten outdoor champion in all 28 years. His athletes have earned Big Ten Athlete of the Year honors nine times. He has coached 16 Academic All-Americans and Wisconsin track athletes have made the Big Ten All-Academic team 234 times.

“He has been a great coach, mentor and friend,” said Joe Detmer, a 2007 Wisconsin graduate and five-time All-American. “Anytime a coach can be as successful as he has been and be respected by both his athletes and peers, it’s a tribute to him as a person.”

After a successful high school career as a vaulter, hurdler and jumper, Nuttycombe was a decathlete at Virginia Tech. He was a five-time Virginia AAU decathlon champion and won six Virginia collegiate pole vault titles.

“Ed was very interested in track at a young age and while he was at Virginia Tech it was apparent he wanted to coach,” said Charles Nuttycombe. “Two of the keys to his success have been how very organized he is and his personality. He’s very personable.”

Before coming to Wisconsin as an assistant coach in 1980, Nuttycombe served as an assistant at Northern Illinois under Marty Pushkin, who had been his coach at Virginia Tech.

Nuttycombe and his wife, Diane, have two children, Kent and Carolyn (Mrs. David U’ren) and one grandchild, Charlie U’ren.

NATE MILTON

Nate Milton began working with NNPS-TV in the summer of 1996 as a student sideline reporter. He has since become the channel's lead color commentator for televised sporting events.

In the Fall of 1996 Milton attended Dean College in Franklin, MA. Where he majored in broadcast communications. Milton was a constant presence on the school's flagship radio station "Power 88" (WGAO), where he produced and hosted several of the station's highest-rated programs. While at WGAO, Milton also served as an analyst for several sporting events including Baseball, Basketball, and Ice Hockey.

Milton then relocated to Okinawa, Japan and joined the staff of ACTV. He served as an editor and camera operator for the network from 1998-2000. Soon after joining ACTV's production team, Milton's on-camera skills allowed him to take on more responsibilities. At ACTV, he was the host and producer of School Dayz, co-host of Sports Talk and an occasional host of Okinawa PM – all signature studio programs for the network.

In 2000, Milton returned to NNPS TV where he remains to this day. This fall he returns for his 12th consecutive season of NNPS' "Friday Night Football", the Peninsula's premiere high school sports broadcast. Milton returns to the booth with longtime friend & broadcast colleague Greg Bicouvaris. Milton is also recognized for his stand-out appearances on radio programs such as "The Sports Scene" on 102.1 The Game as well as 96X's "The Mike & Bob Show".

Over the course of his career, Milton has covered a wide variety of collegiate and high school sporting events – including the 1998 Far East Basketball Tournament and the 2000 Virginia High School League State Football Championship.

Milton was born in Atlanta, Georgia and is a native of Newport News, Virginia. He graduated from Menchville High School in 1996.

MENCHVILLE HIGH SCHOOL

Julian Rice thought of himself as a winner. In his mind, Newport News High School never really lost an athletic contest, no matter what the scoreboard said.

Now, of course, there is no longer a NNHS and Newport News Intermediate has gone the way of all flesh.

Possessed with a hunger for statistical trivia, Rice developed a virtually unparalleled penchant for details concerning minor league baseball and high school sports on the Peninsula, Newport News in particular. The point system used to select a winner encompasses all Peninsula District sports.

Nevertheless, his zeal and support for teams representing this area — once his beloved Typhoon was no longer in contention — made him a legend in his own time.

Time ran out for the perpetual pipe smoker in 1967, and the Peninsula Sports Club decided to honor him with an award named for him in 1970.

The roving, highly-coveted honor is awarded the Peninsula District Group AAA high school which has accumulated the most points during a year of competition. Tabulation is designed to follow systems embraced by college conferences. Schools now eligible for this award are Bethel, Denbigh, Gloucester, Hampton, Heritage, Kecoughtan, Menchville, Phoebus, Warwick and Woodside.

Rice, incidentally, was the Peninsula Sports Club's first secretary.

His enthusiasm for all sports and sporting events led to a perpetuation of the trophy.

JAMESTOWN HIGH SCHOOL

Like its Group AAA counterpart, the Rice Trophy, the Simpson Trophy symbolizes athletic excellence in all areas of competition at the AA level in what was the York River District and is now the Bay Rivers District.

Red Simpson is a name synonymous with athletic excellence within the York River District, and the Peninsula. The kindly Newport News native administered, taught at, and coached at two of the member schools, leaving never to be forgotten memories, records, and a number of pupils and players who returned to their alma maters to carry on his legacy.

An outstanding athlete in his own right, his record in the javelin throw stood for many years in collegiate ranks. At the University of Kentucky, he was mentioned on a number of All-American football teams, and played in the fabled East-West Shrine Game in 1938.

His return to the Peninsula marked the beginning of his coaching career, as he served as an assistant to Coach Frank Dobson at the Newport News Apprentice School (he also played for a semi-pro team known as the NN Builders which had a number of former high school grid stars).

After a stint in the Navy, he returned to coaching and led Poquoson High School to a State Championship in 1949. Along came another war, and Red served again in Korea (he retired from the Naval Reserve in 1965 as a Lieutenant Commander).

Back home again after two and one half years serving his country, he moved on to a new school in 1954. In 1958 his York High Falcons won a league championship with a perfect 9-0 record, defeating some larger Group I Schools in the process.

Red moved on up the administrative ladder in the educational system to Athletic Director, and later Assistant Principal, giving up his first love, coaching, but he left behind a record of championships, of memories of him as a kind, honest, competitor; a man to be emulated.

It is entirely fitting that Poquoson High, where he first coached in high school, should win the first Simpson Trophy, and that Tabb High, whose Athletic Director Willard Hunt played under Red, and Head Coach Charlie Hovis, who began his coaching career under Red, should win the second Simpson Trophy.

Red Simpson, a man to be looked up to and copied. We are proud that he was with us.

SAMUEL MAUNEY

Like so many kids before and after him, Sam Mauney dreamed of playing Major League baseball. Unlike so many, the 1950 Toano High School graduate got very close to achieving that dream.

Mauney signed a professional contract in 1951 with the Portsmouth Cubs, a Class B team in the Piedmont League and toiled for 10 years in the minor leagues, advancing as high as Class AAA, one step shy of the Majors. He actually chased his dream for 12 years taking two years off for military service in 1953-54.

During his military stint at Fort Eustis, Mauney played with future Major League great outfielder Willie Mays and Pittsburgh Pirate pitcher to-be Vernon Law.

Mauney had as big year in 1956 when he hit .343 with 94 runs batted in at Twin Falls, Idaho. He finished his career in 1962 playing for the Portsmouth Tides in the Class A South Atlantic League.

He remembers his days in the 3-I League (Illinois, Indiana, Iowa) when the team traveled in three station wagons and often drove all night for its next game.

He completed a two-year head coaching stint with the Newport News Apprentice School in 1965-66.

Mauney, who also starred in basketball at Toano, is a long-time Peninsula Sports Club member and Peninsula youth baseball supporter.

JEROD MAYO

In three short years Jerod Mayo has established himself as one of the premier linebackers in the National Football League.

The University of Tennessee and Kecoughtan High School product capped his best professional season in 2010 being named to the Associated Press All-Pro team and the AFC Pro Bowl squad.

Mayo recorded a career-high and NFL-leading 193 tackles, including 19-tackle games against Baltimore and Green Bay.

He was ranked No. 62 in the NFL Network's recent Top 100 players list, which was compiled from a players-only vote.

"Jerod's range and tackling ability are really outstanding," said New England head coach Bill Belichick. "He handles the whole front, the defensive line, the linebackers, the stunts and adjustments. He controls the entire defense."

Off the field, Mayo continued his involvement with the United Way and established his own foundation, which sponsors a mobile trailer in Tennessee that provides computer stations for schoolchildren.

"I feel like I can get better as a player and as far as giving back to the community," Mayo said on the Patriots website. "That's what it's all about."

"The goal pretty much is to keep kids occupied and out of trouble."

The 6-foot-1, 242-pound veteran's success at the highest level comes as no surprise to his former high school coach Tommy Austin.

"Jerod was something special," Austin said. "He never missed a practice, was a strong team player and was great to coach."

Retired Kecoughtan athletic director Leonard Thomas also raves about Mayo.

"He is an outstanding person as well as an outstanding football player," Thomas said. "He is as nice and friendly as anyone can be."

Mayo has two brothers playing in the college ranks. and both are following his footsteps as linebackers. Deron is at Old Dominion and Derek played for Richmond.

BRYAN KERSEY

Have whistle will travel.

Bryan Kersey has refereed more than 1,100 college basketball games in 35 states since 1996. The list includes 17 Atlantic Coast Conference tournaments, 12 NCAA tournaments, 15 NIT tournaments and 10 Colonial Athletic Conference finals.

That doesn't include all the summer camps and exhibition games he has also been involved with.

Despite that demanding schedule and working his day job as the president of an insurance firm, Kersey has made time to contribute countless hours to coaching and sponsorship of Peninsula recreational and school sports teams.

He started and sponsors the Hampton Roads Hurricanes, a travel baseball and softball organization. He has served as an assistant baseball coach at Hampton Christian and coached tennis at the Apprentice School during his 20-plus years of volunteer coaching.

MARY MCCOY

In this era of travel baseball and youth leagues that have grown in areas where the population has boomed, the much smaller Phoebus Little League baseball program has persevered largely due to the dedication and hard work of its president Mary McCoy.

Mary has been on the league's board of directors since 1970 and has been president since 1985.

Through the tireless efforts of McCoy and her board of directors, Phoebus has bucked the odds and seen its numbers increase. Quite a feat for a league that has to raise its own money to maintain facilities!

"My love has been baseball and Little League most of my adult life," McCoy said. "Working with the kids keeps me going. I could never have volunteered without the help of all the other volunteers around me."

McCoy has also served on the board of the Peninsula Muscular Dystrophy Baseball Tournament for over 25 years. Her Phoebus Little League now hosts the MD tournament and its efforts have helped the Hampton Roads baseball community raise more than $1,000,000 to help find a cure for muscular dystrophy.

ROBERT WHELESS

The passion that Bobby Wheless has for softball began in 1952 when he first played in a Hampton church league and still thrives today as he advises youngsters and coaches about the game in his retirement years.

Wheless was a standout pitcher during his Air Force days from 1957-63 and participated in the World Tournament three times. His career continued in a Newport News Shipyard league and then a recreation league where his team won three city championships.

He then played for the Fox Hill fast pitch team in 1967 and helped them reach the National Tournament. He returned to recreation league play in 1969 and had another stint with Fox Hill in 1974.

He later managed Fox Hill to a National Tournament berth before beginning a 20-year run coaching girls and giving private lessons. Wheless coached the Poquoson High junior varsity team for 10 years.

Some of his prize pupils were York's Erin Dudley, who earned a scholarship to North Carolina, Poquoson's Cindy Wallace, who played for the University of South Carolina, Kala Trantham, a William and Mary recruit and Warwick's Sarah Atkins, currently at Lenoir-Rhyne.

MORGAN KLINE

Grafton High School

After spurring Grafton to back-to-back state Group AA runner-up volleyball finishes, Morgan Kline won't be seeing much bench time as a freshman at UNC Wilmington next season.

Kline, an outside hitter, who earned state Group AA Player of the Year honors after recording 282 kills, 175 digs and 52 aces for Grafton (26-3) last fall, wowed UNC Wilmington coach Amy Bambenek in the process.

"I consider Morgan a very steady player with superior all around skills, who will immediately contribute to our ball control and attacking power on the outside," Bambenek said of her full-scholarship find. "She is already a polished player that can attack any zone on the court."

Grafton coach Dena Montini liked Kline's total game, especially her ability to produce at the most crucial times.

"When the going got tough, everyone put the ball in her hands and she was able to execute where I think a lot of other kids would be afraid to," the Grafton coach said. "We lose so many things with her gone; it's going to be tough."

Kline finished her Grafton career with a .277 hitting percentage and posted a career-best .316 attack rate in 2010.

A member of the National Honor Society, Kline has been a fixture on the high honor roll at Grafton.

TYREE LEE

Phoebus High School

Don't ask Tyree Lee for an encore because he couldn't do any more than he did in leading Phoebus to an unbeaten 2010 football season and its third consecutive Group AAA state title.

The driven senior rushed for an Eastern Region record 2,540 yards, scored 30 touchdowns, also excelled on defense at free safety and was a productive kick returner.

For his efforts, which included 189 yards rushing and three touchdowns in the state championship win over Stone Bridge, Lee was named the Group AAA state Player of the Year

"What makes Tyree special is the inner drive he has to be good at whatever he does," Phoebus coach Stan Sexton said of the prize Old Dominion recruit. "He's a great kid, who doesn't want to take a backseat to anybody."

Sexton acknowledged the 180-pound Lee's blend of speed and power.

"He has great vision and can make a cut and be back at full speed in one step. Tyree can get you the tough two or three yards between tackles as well as beating you with his speed on the perimeter."

Lee is nearing a full recovery from the broken ankle he suffered in the Chesapeake Bowl All-Star game on Dec. 31. The two screws implanted during surgery have been removed and he has resumed jogging.

Sexton said the injury could be a blessing in disguise because Old Dominion will redshirt Lee this season.

"He'll have a year to settle in his studies and will be chomping at the bit to play the next season," the Phoebus coach said. "The ankle should be as strong as ever. All things considered, Old Dominion is a good fit for him."

ANTHONY GREEN

Jamestown High School

Fortunately for Anthony Green, his mother discovered a beneficial outlet for the boundless energy that could have propelled him down the wrong path in elementary school.

Wanda Wright didn't initially have the finances to get her son Anthony with Team Flash, an AAU track club in Williamsburg, but she took him to free meets and on long runs until she discovered financial assistance was available from the club.

"That changed my life forever," said PSC scholarship recipient Green, a Jamestown High senior track and cross country standout bound for Virginia Commonwealth University. "Thanks to Team Flash, the Jamestown High cross country and track programs and others, I'm not a thief or a drug addict and all my energy has been directed toward positive activities in my school, community and church."

Green, Jamestown's record holder in the 400 and 500 meters, has earned all-state recognition in both indoor and outdoor track as well as all-district and region honors in cross country. Green has been a three-year captain on each of those teams.

He has maintained a 2.98 grade-point average. Green is a member of the school's marching and concert bands, playing the mellophone and French horn. He has served on the NAACP Youth Council, is a Junior Deacon at the First Baptist Morrison Church and has done hospital volunteer work.

"Anthony is a positive force in all his endeavors and is an energetic contributor and leader," said Jamestown academic adviser Ann Shaver. "He will bring that energy and involvement to college. He has learned the importance of setting priorities."

TAYLOR KINNEY

York High School

He carries a 3.9 grade-point average and captains York High's basketball and tennis teams.

So what does PSC scholarship recipient Taylor Kinney do during the fall? The Virginia Tech-bound youngster volunteers as a practice aide and statistician for the girl's volleyball team.

"Volunteering in volleyball has taught me leadership," Kinney said. "By participating in practices and running through drills with them, I was able to motivate the players to work harder and generally improve their skills. The fact that I was willing to give my time and sweat to them was more important than any vocal instructions I gave.

"In the future I plan on remaining active as a volunteer, especially in youth sports."

Kinney has also worked as a Virginia State Soccer Federation referee since he was 14, saving the bulk of his earnings to put toward college.

"In addition to being an excellent scholar and talented athlete, Taylor is very responsible," said York guidance director Michele Belvin Williams. "He does not shy away from challenges and faces obstacles with an open mind and determined spirit."

He is a member of the National Honor Society, National Spanish Honor Society and the National Math Honor Society. He will pursue an aerospace engineering degree in college.

"During my 30 years of coaching, Taylor ranks as one of the best role models I have ever had the pleasure of knowing," said York athletic director Samuel Jackson.

KRISTEN MLYNCZAK

Peninsula Catholic High School

Kristen Mlynczak quickly took to heart some advice from her Peninsula Catholic cross country and track coach Chris Davidson.

"He told me the two things I can control are preparation and effort," PSC scholarship recipient Mlynczak said. "I can run a decent 5K and a pretty speedy 1600 meters. I can box out pretty well in basketball and swim a good 100 backstroke, but my participation in sports at PC has been less about my physical accomplishments and more about my personal growth as a leader, team player and all around better individual."

Mlynczak, Peninsula Catholic's 2011 class valedictorian, ranks as one of the premier individuals in the school's history. From student council president to peer mentor and tutor to cross country MVP to top honors in AP level courses, the University of Virginia-bound student has consistently excelled.

"Kristen's record of achievement as one of our premier scholar-athletes is unparalleled," said mathematics and science department chair Don Pollard.

But it's her commitment to her team and strong character that Davidson finds most remarkable.

"Her concern and compassion for her teammates knows no limits," Davidson said. "She is the first one by their side to celebrate triumphs and is immediately supportive of those who have experienced disappointment. The kind of comprehensive impact on the track team which Kristy has demonstrated has rarely been equaled."

Nelson Ellis

The criteria for the Peninsula Sports Club's President's Award includes being an individual who has made a special commitment or contribution to sports on the Peninsula.

A nearly 50-year career as a basketball official and commissioner of the Peninsula Officials Association are the impeccable credentials that merit this honor for Nelson Ellis.

Ellis, a key member of the Newport News High School 1956 state basketball championship team, began officiating in 1962 and spent the next 20 years working on the high school and college level. He officiated regularly in the Southern Conference, called an NCAA tournament game and also worked in the Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association.

Ellis said he honed his officiating skills by watching veterans like legendary Peninsula referee Otis "Cootie" Almond.

A knee injury in the early 1980's ended his working games, but spawned his successful run as commissioner of the Peninsula Association.

"Nelson made the association into a professional group because of his superb organizational skills," said Horace Underwood, a former referee and longtime area assistant principal. "He was very honest in his assessment of referees, and they took his advice to heart and used it to get better."

Ellis was a master at recognizing talent and pairing promising newcomers with proven veterans to make the association stronger. He drew praise from his colleagues for his overall fairness and a knack for choosing the best officials to work the best games.

He advised his officials to not overcall games and to see the play through before making a ruling.

Cancer forced Ellis to vacate his commissioner's post this spring, but his quality work will endure for years to come.

Bryan Cain

By By Jim Heath
Apprentice School SID

After finishing a senior football season where he was among the Atlantic Central Football Conference leaders in receptions per game, yards per game and touchdowns – and won Co-Offensive Player of the Year honors, Apprentice School football wide receiver Bryan Cain capped his career by being named the 2011 Apprentice School Athlete of the Year.

Cain, a pipefitter apprentice from Baker, La., saw his reception total increase each of his last three years and finished with the second most receptions in a single season in school history this year with 55 for 773 yards (fifth best) and eight touchdowns (tied for second best). Those numbers put him second in the ACFC in all categories and enabled him to share the Offensive Player of the Year honors in the ACFC. He became the second Offensive Player of the Year honoree by the ACFC for the Builders behind Travis Reid.

A speedy wide receiver, he had a career-best 13 receptions as a sophomore at NCAA Division II Lake Erie College and caught for 158 yards as a senior at Catholic University. In the Catholic game and later as a senior at LaGrange, Cain caught a pair of touchdown passes. He also was a standout on special teams in blocking kicks. As a sophomore in the Oyster Bowl, he tied a school record with three blocked kicks against Southern Virginia to win Most Valuable Player honors.

Apprentice School Head Football Coach Michael Vite had nothing but strong praise for Cain in his being honored with the 2011 Apprentice School Athlete of the Year award. “Bryan Cain was an example of a player who put the team ahead of himself and worked every day in order to become the best he could be,” he said. “He is a self-starter, a team player, and one who did all he could possibly do to help benefit the team. I coached him for his last three years and he was nothing but a joy to be with.”

“Bryan began his apprenticeship on July 23, 2007. Since that time, he has worked on various programs that were considered milestones in the life of the shipyard,” said lead instructor for piping department Vince Warren. “In 2008, Bryan worked on the George H.W. Bush, the final Nimitz Class carrier built at Newport News Shipbuilding. The next year, Bryan was able to work on the Gerald R. Ford, the first ship in the next generation of aircraft carrier. In addition to working on the construction of new aircraft carriers during his apprenticeship, Bryan worked on the overhaul of the carrier U.S.S. Enterprise and on Virginia Class Submarines. He is currently building piping details and assemblies for the carrier Gerald R. Ford in the Assembly Pipe Shop.”

Cain is in the final months of his apprenticeship as he is slated to finish in September. Since the season finished, he has played in two All-Star classics. In December, Cain was in Roanoke for the D3 Senior Classic All-Star game where he caught six passes and scored a touchdown. He followed that by participating in May at the All-American Bowl in Charleston, W.V. where he caught a pass for 45 yards and returned punts in the game that pitted NCAA Division II, III, NAIA players together.

WHAT IS THE PRESIDENT'S AWARD?

According to the Peninsula Sports Club constitution, criteria for a nominee for the President's Award include being an individual or organization “who has had an outstanding year or years of service in a sport or sports organization;” or an individual or organization “has made a special contribution and or commitment to sports on the Peninsula . . . Or that “achievements are such that this individual or organization's accomplishments stand out in a rare and unique manner.” The award is not necessarily given out annually.

JERICKA JENKINS

The Hampton University Peninsula Sports Club's 2011 Athlete-of-the-Year is Jericka Jenkins, a 5'4 junior guard on the Lady Pirates basketball team.

A native of Lancaster, Texas, Jenkins was recently voted HU's Female Athlete-of-the-Year after being the leading playmaker on a team that won the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference (MEAC) regular-season championship as well as the league's tournament championship, the latter earning the Lady Pirates a second straight trip to the NCAA tournament. In the NCAA tournament, Hampton nearly pulled off a major upset, losing to the heavily-favored Wildcats of the University of Kentucky in Albuquerque, New Mexico.

Jenkins led the MEAC and was second in the nation in assists, averaging 7.2 per game, as well as assist/turnover ratio with a ratio of 3.0. She finished the season with 201 total assists, second-most in a season in program history and most ever among players from the school who competed on the Division I level.

Meanwhile, Jenkins led Hampton and was second seventh in the conference in scoring, averaging 13.4 points per contest. She made 27 of 81 three-pointers, shot 41.8 percent from the floor and ranked second in the MEAC in free throw percentage with a mark of 83.1. Additionally, Jenkins scored in double figures 20 times and she scored a season-high 30 points against IPFW on December 9.

The honors reaped by Jenkins this academic year were numerous, including:

- Associated Press Honorable Mention All-America (the first such honor by the AP for a women's player from HU);
- First Team All-MEAC;
- Richmond Times-Dispatch First Team All-State;
- VaSID Second Team All-State;
- MEAC All-Tournament;
- MEAC Player-of-the-Week (3 times);
- ECAC Player-of-the-Week (1 time)

Criminology major, Jenkins is a consistent recipient of Dean's List honors at Hampton. She was recently named to the Capital One Academic All-District, a fitting tribute to her reputation as a true "student-athlete."

GRACE GOLDEN

One of the greatest players in the history of the William and Mary lacrosse program, All-American midfielder Grace Golden recently concluded her outstanding collegiate career. During her four years at the College, Golden established herself as one of the nation's premier midfielders and garnered numerous national, regional and conference accolades. After being selected to the Tewaaraton Award Watch List three consecutive years, she was one of just 24 players chosen as a Tewaaraton Award Nominee this spring. The elite group of standouts represent the country's top players and are considered for the national player of the year honor.

One of the most decorated players in the history of the Colonial Athletic Association, Golden was selected as the 2011 CAA Player of the Year and became just the third student-athlete in the league's history to garner first-team all-conference distinction four times.

An outstanding all-around player, Golden finished her career as W&M's all-time leader in draw controls (153) and ranks second in goals (187) and points (231). The Manhasset, N.Y., native also ranks among the program's top-10 lists in caused turnovers (122), ground balls (176) and assists (44). Additionally, she owns the single-season school record for caused turnovers (45) and draw controls (52).

In addition to her individual accomplishments, Golden was also instrumental in helping the Tribe achieve tremendous success as a team. During Golden's career, W&M was consistently ranked among the nation's top 20 and earned four consecutive CAA Tournament appearances. Additionally, the Tribe posted double-digit win seasons all four years.

While Golden was outstanding on the field, she also excelled in the classroom and garnered the CAA Commissioner's Academic Award twice. She graduated with a degree in marketing with a finance concentration and will begin working for Pepsi in their sales department in Newport News, Va.

JENNIFER FALIN

Christopher Newport University

Fourteen runs batted in is a solid season's worth of production for many softball players. So when Christopher Newport's Jennifer Falin produces that number in four games at an NCAA regional tournament no less, you have to be in awe.

Falin, CNU's junior second baseman and a former all-state player at Bruton High School, smacked two game-deciding grand slam home runs on consecutive days as the Captains swept four games in winning last month's Salisbury Regional title.

Her first slam was a walk-off shot in a 13-inning win over Emory, which had lost twice all season. The other blast provided a 7-3 win over host Salisbury, advancing the Captains to the title game.

Falin batted .329, pounded 11 home runs and totaled 50 RBI in CNU's 35-10 run to the Elite 8 for the second straight season. The No. 5 hitter in the lineup also stroked 11 doubles and owned a .643 slugging percentage with a .366 on-base mark.

This year's power surge came after Falin had contributed one homer in 48 previous games with the Captains.

The biology major's father, Dave Falin, was her coach at Bruton. She was also a reserve on CNU's Final Four basketball team

TYROD TAYLOR

Virginia Tech

A quick scan of quarterback Tyrod Taylor's records at Virginia Tech and it's easy to see why the kid who led Hampton High to the 2005 state championship was the man named both Atlantic Coast Conference and state Division 1 collegiate Player of the Year in 2010.

Taylor, one of only four quarterbacks in the nation to pass for 20 or more touchdowns and rush for more than 600 yards last season, finished as Virginia Tech's all-time total offense (8,969 yards) and passing yardage leader (6,795). He was 15th nationally in passing efficiency in 2010 and his four interceptions ranked him fourth in lowest percentage in the country.

He led the Hokies to an 8-0 ACC finish, the league's first unbeaten run since Florida State accomplished it in 2000.

Taylor was disappointed to be just a sixth-round pick by Baltimore in the National Football League draft, but had to be pleased by the words of Ravens general manager Ozzie Newsome.

"We drafted him as a quarterback and we feel he has the skill sets to play the position and he also brings the dimension of being a terrific athlete that can get out of the pocket and hurt people," Newsome said in response to critics, who question Taylor's ability to quarterback at the highest level."

Added Ravens head coach John Harbaugh: "Tyrod Taylor has a chance to be a heck of a quarterback in this league."

Nobody, who watched him consistently make big plays in crucial situations at Virginia Tech and Hampton, would disagree.

TI'ERRA BROWN

University of Miami

U.S. National 400-meter hurdle champion and five-time All-American Ti'erra Brown gained an elusive first Atlantic Coast Conference championship winning the 100-meter hurdles in her senior season in April.

The former Hampton High state champion ran a 12.94 to win the 100 hurdles and finished second in the 400 at 57.58. In the 100 victory she overcame a slow start to beat NCAA indoor champion Brianna Rollins of Clemson.

Brown is Miami's record holder in the 100 and 400 hurdles outdoors and the 60 hurdles indoors. She became the first Hurricane to win a USA title with a 54.85 clocking in the 400 hurdles at the 2010 USA Championships.

WILL LAMB

Clemson

At 6-foot-6, Clemson's Will Lamb might be the tallest centerfielder in collegiate baseball.

The height hasn't slowed down the junior from York High School, who also pitches and has played first base and been a designated hitter in his time with the perennial Atlantic Coast Conference power Tigers.

Lamb has helped Clemson to a Top 20 national ranking this season. Through 52 games, he owned a .326 batting average with 30 runs batted in, 10 doubles, three triples, one home run and 11 stolen bases. He played errorless defense with 121 putouts and five assists.

In nine appearances on the mound that included four starts, Lamb was 1-1 with 27 strikeouts in 23-plus innings. Opponents hit .251 against him.

He was ranked the No. 7 prospect in the ACC and No. 84 nationally for the 2011 Major League draft. Lamb also had a banner 2010 summer season with the Peninsula Pilots in the Coastal Plain League, batting .396 with eight steals in eight attempts.

2011 Peninsula Sports Club Honorees On Your Athletic and Academic Accomplishments!

Free Trial Week

In recognition of your efforts and commitment to your sport we would like to extend a free trial week of Sports Group Training to all 2011 Peninsula Sports Club Honorees.

► Tidewater Performance

Tidewater Performance is a division of Tidewater Physical Therapy, a regional leader in out-patient physical therapy with a 25 year commitment to our local student athletes.

► Sports Group Training

Explode! Speed-Up! Be Agile! Accelerate Faster!

Sports challenge athletes to do all this. And be better than your opponent. And not get hurt. And pay attention to the game. And make smart decisions. And... on and on and on. We can't get in the game for you, but Tidewater's team of world class sports professionals can make that explosiveness, speed and agility second nature, giving you time to think smarter. Bring out your inner champion!

► Why?

At Tidewater, trainers lead every program. Why? Because research proves that they get results...According to the Journal of Strength and Conditioning Research, a 2008 study determined that exercise intensity - defined by repetition, strength and perceived exertion - was 20 percent higher for people working out with a personal trainer than those working out on their own.

► Programs

Programs are sports specific and designed for the individual athlete or overall team performance. It's up to you.

- Youth (6-10) - "When playing is your sport."
- Prep (11-13) - We appreciate the value of movement in the development of the athletic engine.
- Advanced (14-18) - "When competition is your sport."
- Elite (Collegiate and Professional Athletes)

► Fitness

Christopher Newport University 2011 Athlete of the Year CHELSIE SCHWEERS

Christopher Newport University congratulates CHELSIE SCHWEERS, the 2011 Peninsula Sports Club Athlete of the Year from CNU. It is the second straight year she has won the award.

Schweers concluded an amazing four-year career with the Captains. She led the women's basketball squad this year to the NCAA Tournament's Final Four and a 30-4 record.

Her fantastic senior season followed a junior year that saw the Captains post a 30-1 record and a trip to the Sweet 16.

Schweers was named the 2011 National Women's Player of the Year by two different agencies, the DIII News and D3Hoops.com.

Schweers led the nation in scoring this season at all levels, scoring 25.6 points per game, and ranks second on the all-time Division III scoring list.

During the past season, she became the second player in NCAA history to hit 400 3-pointers, led the nation in three-point field goal percentage and was second in 3-pointers made per game.

Schweers, a Chesapeake native, earned All-America honors each of her four seasons at CNU. She is the first CNU athlete to ever achieve All-America status in all four years.

The Hickory High School graduate became the all-time leading scorer in both CNU women's and men's basketball history.

The USA South Athletic Conference honored Schweers all four seasons as first-team all-conference. She was also the Player of the Year in the league three times and was the Rookie of the Year her freshman season.

Schweers was also chosen Virginia College Division Player of the Year for the fourth straight season in voting by the Virginia Sports Information Directors (VaSID).

On senior day, Schweers' uniform #11 was retired by the university. She received her bachelor's degree from CNU last month.

2011 In-State Player of the Year JENNIFER FALIN

Christopher Newport also congratulates junior softball player JENNIFER FALIN for being named the in-state Player of the Year.

Falin helped lead the CNU softball squad to the Division III National Finals. The Captains finished the year 38-12 and were just a win away from the national championship.

Falin, a product of Bruton High School in Williamsburg, hit grand slam home runs in back-to-back NCAA games including the game-winner in the 13th inning vs. #2 Emory. She started all 50 games and finished the year hitting .338 with 14 homers and 58 runs batted in.
